How to Apply Online with CDU

Congratulations on deciding to study with a university ranked in the top 2% or university’s world-wide, Charles Darwin University. Here’s how to get started with your application.

First, visit the CDU Course Finder to collect information about your chosen course. Enter your course name if you know it, or the area of study that you are interested in, and click search. Explore your study options and decide if you want to study online, on-campus, part-time or full-time and check if your course has any eligibility requirement. If you are not eligible for your chosen course, we offer alternately entry options like the Tertiary Enabling Program.

Now, write down your SATAC code, you’ll need it later. Next, go to the SATAC website. All applications to study at CDU are processed by the SATAC admissions centre.

To start your application you need to create a SATAC profile. To create your profile, click “undergraduate” and then click “apply”. Follow the prompts and enter your personal details. To process your application, SATAC will need copies of your study records from high school or any previous tertiary studies. SATAC can access most of your study records, but if they can’t access something they may request it from you. Once you set-up your profile, SATAC will send you an email with a link. Open the link and start your application.

When doing your application you need to complete every section and slick save, even if the section is not relevant to you. Once completed click “submit” and your application is done.

SATAC will send you an offer to study via email. You can also check if you have been made an offer on the SATAC website after 6pm on offer-round dates. To accept the offer, click the link in your offer email. CDU will send you an email with instructions on how to enrol in your first semester.

If you have any questions about applying too, or studying with CDU please get in-touch. Oh, and good luck with your application.
